

Tishk
International University

Faculty of Applied Science
Medical Analysis Department

Course Descriptions

Medical Microbiology is the branch of microbiology concerned with medicine and medical practice. Students will be educated on viruses, bacteria, parasites and fungi involved with human disease. As a large and predominant division of medical practice, this course aims to introduce students to medical microbiology and provide a generalized overview of the subject which students will later study further detail.

MA 212 / MEDICAL MICROBIOLOGY