

Tishk
International University

Faculty of Applied Science
Medical Analysis Department

Course Descriptions

The purpose of taking this course is to learn the basic concepts and principles of endocrine system. Most of the lecture examples will be drawn from mammals, especially humans. This is because our understanding of the function of mammalian systems is better than it is of almost any other animal species. However, there are situations in which the presentation of non-mammalian systems will enhance our understanding of endocrinology in general.

MA 304 / ENDOCRINOLOGY